

Put into the Past Simple Tense

The following morning it (be)still wet so Arthur (-get up) until twelve o'clock. Then he (have)lunch and (sit)in front of the television for the rest of the day. He (-go)out and he (-even have)a shave.

One of the programmes on the television (be)about learning to drive. What a good idea!- Arthur (think)and so the next day he (go)along the Licence Office in his lunch hour and (get)a Provisional Driving Licence. Then he (go).....to the Driving School and (make)an appointment for his first lesson on Wednesday morning.

.....(?Arthur/learn) to drive? Probably not, you may think. But Mr Taylor's hair (-go).....completely white and in fact Arthur (learn)..... to drive without much difficulty. He (pass).....the very first time. So now he (need).....a car but he (want)..... a cheap one because he only (have)about £1,000.

One Saturday afternoon Arthur (put).....his cheque-book into his pocket and (catch).....a bus to the High Street. He (get off)the bus at the police station and (cross)the road to the Car Mart. There (be)a yellow sports car outside the showroom. Arthur (look).....at it for a long time. "I need a car like that," (think).....Arthur. But(?he/have) enough money?